FLOW BENCH 2400

This 'free form' 2 seater bench has been digitally designed and crafted. It consists of 2 each of 31 different plywood profiled ribs, each consisting of 4 unique components clipped onto 5 internal stringers. Each connection is precision cut allowing for the entire piece to be clipped and glued together without the need for metal fixings.

It works well as a single piece of furniture, or several can be joined end to end, either facing the same way or alternate directions (for example for public space seating), creating a continuous flowing form.

We also supply customised 'bookends' for either end of the bench, or to fit between benches, which can be made of concrete or timber and can house either bins or planters for public spaces.
